Advising

Academic Advising
All students are assigned to an Academic Society and provided with an advisor that will follow them longitudinally throughout their time at Harvard Medical School. London Society will provide additional advising related to HST-specific issues as well as research. Your Society advisor can assist you in finding mentors to explore a field you might be interested in exploring. Learn more about academic advising.

Personal Advising
Medical school can be a joyful but also challenging time. Students may face variety of struggles during their time at HMS. Learn more about the resources available to students.

Career Advising
Career advising begins for students during their first week of medical school and continues throughout their tenure at HMS. Career advising programs are built into every stage of the curriculum—preclerkship, clerkship/Principal Clinical Experience (PCE), and post-PCE—to help launch students into residency.

Residency Advising
HMS will guide you through the Residency application process through individual and group session along with providing with online resources.

Alumni Advising
Please contact Dr. Dea Angiolillo at Dea_Angiolillo@hms.harvard.edu to be connected with an alum at any point during your time at HMS. You provide her with details as to the type of mentor you are looking for. To search the list of alums by specialty, click here.
